SEVERE SERVICE
EMERGENCY SUPPORT VEHICLES

SEVERE DUTY

Severe duty is more than the ability to engage a four-wheel drive and go off-road. The body on the vehicle you take there must be designed for rugged conditions. That's where Hackney excels. We manufacture emergency support vehicle (ESV) bodies with a track record for dependability and durability.

We also understand that many times the responding agency does not have the luxury to dispatch multiple vehicles. That's why we design ESV's that maximize storage capacity, permitting added space for all that extra equipment required to be transported to assure you have the right equipment when you arrive. And, we design storage configurations that make deploying that equipment fast and simple.

Have a special requirement. Give us a call and let us design a solution.
